Combined, these facilities recover approximately 1.6 million tons of recycled commodities annually. The transaction also includes the assumption of multiple long-term municipal agreements with processing fee-based structures, which aligns with Republic's innovative recycling pricing model.

"Through the use of innovation and technology, ReCommunity has developed state-of-the-art recycling processing capabilities in select markets, enabling communities to recover valuable commodities from the waste stream and achieve their sustainability goals," said Dennis McGill, ReCommunity's chief executive officer. "With this acquisition, we are joining a company committed to the same environmental and community ideals and will be able to deliver a broader range of services to our customers."

As part of its Blue Planet™ sustainability platform Republic has a goal of adding an additional 150,000 tons or more per year of recycling capacity by 2018.
