Republic Services and Allied Waste Announce Merger Integration Team

Wednesday July 23, 5:00 pm ET

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. & PHOENIX—(BUSINESS WIRE)—Republic Services, Inc. (NYSE: RSG — News) and Allied Waste Industries, Inc. (NYSE: AW — News) today announced that Michael Cordesman, Republic's President and Chief Operating Officer, and Christopher Melocik, Allied's Senior Vice President of Operations Effectiveness, will lead the integration planning process associated with the companies' merger agreement announced on June 23, 2008.

The integration team — which also comprises approximately 10 functional experts from each company, as well as Republic Chairman and Chief Executive Officer James O'Connor, Allied Waste President and Chief Operating Officer Don Slager, Republic Chief Financial Officer Tod Holmes and Allied Waste Executive Vice President and Chief Personnel Officer Ed Evans — will select the people, systems and business processes from both organizations to fully capture the $150 million of announced net annual operating synergies and ensure that the company is in the strongest position for ongoing success.

Republic Services and Allied Waste also announced today that they have retained Deloitte Consulting LLP to advise the companies on merger integration planning. Deloitte is one of the country's leading merger integration consulting firms, having advised on hundreds of transactions in the recent years. Representatives from Deloitte will work closely with the integration team.

"Our leadership teams are committed to an effective and efficient integration of our operations and our people, and we are excited to have already made important progress in the integration process," said Mr. O'Connor. "The integration team is already developing the critical action plans and processes that will begin upon completion of the merger. We look forward to working with Deloitte's experts, who will advise our integration team on creating a plan that effectively integrates the companies and enables us to realize the significant benefits of this combination."

"Mike and Chris will focus on the critical corporate, financial, operational and employee integration points that can drive the future success of the merged company," said Mr. Slager. "We have already formed functional teams that have begun the vital work of planning for a seamless integration. We intend to hit the ground running on day one — ensuring that we create a rewarding and safe workplace for our employees, provide uninterrupted superior service to customers while continuing to generate value for our shareholders."

As previously announced on June 23, 2008, the companies' boards of directors unanimously approved a definitive merger agreement that firmly establishes one of the nation's leading waste and environmental services providers, with expected pro forma annual revenues of approximately $9 billion and an expected total market capitalization of approximately $12 billion. The combined company will have more than 35,000 employees serving more than 13 million customers in 40 states and Puerto Rico. The companies expect to achieve approximately $150 million in net pretax annual synergies by the third year following the completion of the transaction, primarily from achieving greater operating efficiencies, capturing inherent economies of scale and leveraging corporate and overhead resources.

The transaction is expected to close by the fourth quarter of 2008, and to be accretive to Republic's earnings per share and cash flow per share in the first year following completion of the merger.

The companies will continue to post updates at www.RepublicAllied.com.
